FROM OUR EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Domestic violence is a societal problem. The person and the children experiencing abuse are not the only ones impacted. Law enforcement, employers, health care providers, friends and families are all impacted emotionally, economically and in terms of safety.

Societal problems require cooperative solutions. Turning Point is actively working to engage the entire Lehigh Valley to become the solution. We are now enlisting more individuals -- women, men and young people -- to change the attitudes that allow this violence to continue unabated.

We have been fortunate over this past year to partner with many of you in our efforts to provide support for families throughout the Lehigh Valley who have been affected by domestic violence.

In addition to our emergency shelter, counseling and legal advocacy, we have enhanced our work with area police departments, offering Lethality Assessment Program (LAP) training that helps provide emergency assessment and referral tools when officers respond to domestic violence calls.

In response to growing needs in the LGBTQ community, Turning Point now offers counseling services in partnership with the Bradbury-Sullivan Community Center in downtown Allentown. Bilingual counseling is also now provided at that site.

Your monetary and "wish list" donations, as well as the time and talent that so many of you contributed, made it possible for our organization to respond to the needs of 2,763 adults and children during this past year.

In addition, your resources allowed us to reach more than 6,000 people through our community outreach efforts. It is our hope that these prevention education and training programs will help to raise awareness and break the silence about domestic abuse so that people who need help will be more likely to seek it, and new generations may learn to break this dangerous cycle once and for all.

We invite you to continue to stand with us and endorse our efforts to build a stronger community in which we can finally say No More to all forms of domestic abuse.

Thank you for your ongoing support and for being part of the solution.

In peace ~ Lori Sywensky, Executive Director
